

I am loyal to my laziness dedicated to my demons they have served me well creatively but not in any other way are there any artists who have not struggled even the ones who have found the holy grail.....financial security I don't know any so at 73 I'm still searching.... the blank canvas hypnotizes me the mystery of horizons the beauty of sunsets makes me think there could be a god I hope there is because I need more than myself

I worship the sun immune to its radiation I am happiest in its light the moon is so cold today I am alive with new ideas 73 years of careful planning and I've never screwed up.... well.....that's a lie... at least I think I've done more right than wrong today is a happy day today I am surrounded by the person and people I love comfortable on the edge of creative uncertainty still trying and still wanting to try still hopeful for a world that is broken still documenting beauty with my camera understanding beauty is eternal, infinite and free and understanding how lucky I am to be 73
